Students in Oxford who wish to go home

Please see <https://www.ox.ac.uk/coronavirus/students> for information about students travelling home from Oxford at Easter. Please note that the exemption is only for students who are already at university, so that they can return home during the Easter break. It does not permit you to travel back and forth to your university accommodation if you are currently at home.

If you do decide to leave, you must follow safer travel guidance and are strongly advised to get tested for COVID-19.

College will provide you with a Lateral Flow Device (LFD) test. You should take the test just before you leave Oxford - either on the day before your departure, or on the day you leave.

It is very important that you record your result via the University Testing Service – whether it is negative or positive.

If the result is positive, you must book a confirmatory PCR test via the University Testing Service and self-isolate until you receive a negative result. If the PCR result is positive, you must self-isolate in Oxford for ten days.

Where possible, you should get tested before you travel back to university after your Easter break – through community testing facilities near your home address.

You will also need to take two LFD tests when you return to Oxford (see <https://www.ox.ac.uk/coronavirus/students>)

Government rules for the Easter period

Oxford is currently in lockdown.

Stage One

From 8 March two people from different household can meet outside for recreation, which can include “a coffee on a bench”.

From 29 March people will be allowed to meet outside, either with one other household or within the “rule of six”, including in private gardens.
